

Dr. Aarti Shyamsunder

Dr. Aarti Shyamsunder is an Associate Principle at Infosys Leadership Institute where she supports leadership development across the organization. Originally from Mumbai (India), Aarti has split her professional life working in the United States and India. She obtained her PhD in Industrial/Organizational Psychology from the University of Akron and then worked in the US in the area of employee selection, designing, validating and implementing technology enabled staffing assessments for large, distributed organizations. In 2009 she got an opportunity to move back to her home country to work for Infosys, one of India's most reputed organizations. The transition back has been eventful, eye-opening and fulfilling in many ways, and she looks forward to learning a lot more working in a high-impact organization during one of the most exciting times to be in corporate India.
