

Scott M. Brooks, Ph.D.

Partner and Vice President,
Surveys & Organizational Research

Scott Brooks is a partner and vice president of consulting at OrgVitality, a management consulting firm based on data-based organizational change. With twenty years experience, Scott consults with organizations and individuals to drive strategic improvement based on surveys, HR metrics, and research that illuminate the connections between leadership, operations, customer loyalty and business results. Prior to OrgVitality, he led the consulting group within Kenexa's survey practice and was the West Coast General Manager and an executive consultant for Gantz Wiley Research. He also worked internally within organizational development for a division of Target.
